

5. All different, all one community

Our song today speaks of how we are all different, in how we look and feel and think, and how we are all part of the human race.

It speaks of how God loves us all, each and every human being, and knows us personally

1. How many different communities can you find that you belong to? Family? Nation? Sports team? Music group?

Can you make a Venn diagram like this, with different circles for each of your communities and put yourself in the middle, where the circles overlap?

2. What sorts of things make you distinctively YOU?
3. Think of someone you really like. How many of their special characteristics are quite different from your characteristics? Now think of someone you don't really like very much. How many similarities or connections can you find that link you and that person?
4. Now choose one good thing about each of these two people that makes the world a better community.

If you like, you could make a thank you prayer that we are all special to God and that we all have an important place in his creation.
